ASK FEDERAL EXPERTS TO STUDY CHIGGER NEST

Insects Which Menace South Found in Centre County.

CAUSE SKIN ERUPTIONS

United States government experts, at Washington, will come to Centre County in the next few months to investigate the cause of, and endeavor to eradicate, an extensive nest of chiggers, which is an insect usually found only in the South. A chigger, by the way, is a poisonous pest that has the mosquito faded far into the background as a producer of human distress. The misquito may cause one no end of annoyance, but the chigger, once it finds its way into human skin, produces intense suffering. It has caused so much trouble in the South for years past, particularly where men are employed in the mountains, that experts have devoted much time and money in attempting to combat what the southerner describes as "man's worst enemy on earth."

Professor J. A. Ferguson, head of the Forestry Department at Pennsylvania State College, has requested the Washington experts to study the presence of chiggers in Centre County. In July of last year Professor Ferguson had his Forestry Department students camp for practical instruction purposes on Ross run, nearby the Huntingdon Co. line. It was while the students were in camp that the presence of chiggers was discovered. Professor Ferguson gave the matter his personal attention. While at first somewhat skeptical as to the character of the insect his investigations left him in no doubt on that score. He explained to "The Republican" that this is the farthermost northern point chiggers had been discovered. Because of the presence of the pests at that place, Professor Ferguson will not have his forestry students camp there this summer but will take them to Whipple's dam, an ideal mountain spot nearby Pine Grove Mills.

The chigger attacks a person principally on the legs or arms. It penetrates the skin by boring alongside a hair until it reaches the roots. There the chigger deposits its eggs. In a comparatively short time the skin becomes poisoned and the person experiences intense suffering and the most agonizing itching. As Professor Ferguson described it, one chigger is ten times worse than the worst mosquito possibly could be. Ointments usually successful in counteracting poisons from insects seemingly have no effect on the poisonous chigger.

HORSE FELL ON TROOPER

Harry Turner Suffered Abdominal Injuries; Not Serious.

Harry Turner, one of the members of Troop B, Bellefonte, suffered injuries of a very painful nature, but they are not necessarily serious, according to a report from the hospital.

Turner was one of many troopers to start out for a ride on Sunday. He went to the troop barn, on East Howard St., about 9 o'clock and had just started on his ride, when the horse reared and fell backward. It was done so quickly that he was unable to get from the saddle and friends who came to his aid thought him seriously hurt so that he was taken to the hospital. The horse was not hurt.

Three Touring Cars Damaged.

Three touring cars were slightly damaged in an accident at State College on Tuesday afternoon but the occupants escaped serious injury. J. V. Griffith, a student, was driving along Allen street and J. D. Keller drove from an alley to the street, a collision resulting. One of the cars was pushed against the side of the parked car of Dr. R. H. Fox.

Ford Engine "Kicked."

George R. M. Ruple, of near Beech Creek, had his arm painfully injured when the ligaments were torn as he attempted to crank his Ford car and the engine "kicked." He said that he stalled his engine in stopping quickly to avoid colliding with a buggy and that in the excitement he cranked carelessly.

Bear Cubs Taken from Girl.

The bear cubs which Miss Jennie Hubler, Clearfield County girl, caught near Palestine, were taken by Deputy State Game Protector W. J. Davis, of Clearfield, on Saturday. The girl was not permitted to keep the cubs because bears are protected game.

Hazel—Shaffer Reunion.

The Hazel—Shaffer reunion will be held on June 21st. in Deitrich's Grove at Madisonburg. Come and bring your friends, everybody welcome. A basket picnic. Band music will be furnished.

ATTENDED TRAIL MEETING

Plans Announced for Big Time at State College in June.

James P. Aikens, of the committee at State College, was among the eighty members of the Horseshoe Trail association which attended the meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, in Cumberland, Md., last Thursday. More plans for the first two-days session, which will be held at State College on June 28 and 29, were made public.

Mr. Aikens told the members that plans were under way for giving those attending the two days sessions the program of entertainment which they might expect and including sports well worth the effort.

He told of tentative arrangements but said it would be necessary to know just how many persons would attend. President George D. Worthington, of Altoona, then named a special committee to secure the names of these contemplating attending. The committee is composed of Col. Charles Duffy, Williamsport; F. L. Winner, Lock Haven; Robert F. Hunter, Bellefonte; James Aiken and Jennie F. Spangler, State College; Dr. John Nason, Tyrone; Robert B. Gable, Altoona; J. C. Smith, Bedford, and M. E. Burke, Cumberland, Md.

Tasted Coal Oil in Trout.

Here is a new wrinkle in the fish story line. Pretty nearly anything, true or otherwise, passes muster as a fish story, but this one is not a fairy tale. For some time past local fishermen have been telling of tasting coal oil in brown trout caught in Logan branch nearby Bellefonte, or in the lime kiln dam or McCoy's dam. Nobody paid any attention to the tales until the wives of fishermen also mentioned having tasted coal oil when trout were served for breakfast. That started something. The matter was reported to State Fish Commissioner Buller, at Harrisburg, and last week he sent an inspector to Bellefonte to investigate. After tramping along the local streams for some hours the inspector was disposed to believe that the trout probably had become tainted from oil draining into the creeks from nearby garages. Continuing his search, however, the inspector finally located large quantities of coal oil seeping into Logan branch at the Titan Metal Co. plant. It was his conclusion then that the mystery had been solved. Workmen at the plant said that a bad leak in the oil pipes had been suspected for some time, but that efforts to locate it had failed. Evidences of oil were noticeable at many points as far down the stream as the falls, south of the Bush House. At that point, for some strange reason, the oil apparently blended, or became partially mixed, with the water. Trout, like most persons, drink only water these days, and the water being tainted with coal oil the fish absorbed the oil. So the fishermen and their wives hadn't been imagining it at all when they reported tasting coal oil in the trout they had eaten. Fish Commissioner Buller will request the Titan Metal Co. to locate and repair the leak in the oil pipes at the plant.

"Springtime" Accounts Settled.

All accounts incident to the staging of "Springtime" here last week have been settled, and the production proved to be a success financially to the Camp Fire Girls, which organization promoted the show. The John B. Rogers Producing Company produced the play and came under contract to receive one half of the proceeds after all expenses were paid. The total receipts were $736.27, and the total expenses $331.70, leaving a net balance of $404.57, which amount was equally divided between the producing company and the Camp Fire Girls. The latter organization intend making a nice donation to the Y. M. C. A. from their amount.

To Reside in Lancaster.

William H. Austin, daughter Catherine and son William, left Blanchard for Lancaster, on Tuesday, to join Mrs. Austin and daughters, Margaret, Jane and Mary, where they will make their future home. Mr. Austin was a very active citizen of lower Bald Eagle valley and had many friends in Centre County who wish him success in his new sphere.

The Founders Day banquet of the Acacia fraternity held at the State College University club on Monday evening in honor of the Grand President of the National Fraternity William S. Dye, of State College, was attended by forty persons.

Girl's Disappearance Alarmed Friends.

Miss Julia Fuller, 19 Year Old Washington Stenographer, Found Here---Had Removed Hair With Butcher Knife, Blackened Face and Donned Overalls---Believed Mentally Unbalanced.

Miss Julia Fuller caused much alarm among her relatives and the countryside about Waddle this week when she walked away from the J. W. Clark home quietly and without telling where she was going.

From what can be learned, she slept in a barn in upper Buffalo Run valley on Sunday night and reached Valley View on Monday morning, stopping at Wes Rider's house and asking him for work, stating that she was traveling from the west and wanted something to do to earn a living.

Mr. Rider explained that he could not employ her and she started to walk along the road toward Coleville. She had not gone far when discovered by Rev. G. W. Eminhizer, of Coleville, who was being shown by Rev. Geo. E. Smith, pastor of the local United Brethren church, how to manipulate the Buick touring car which "Grandfather" Eminhizer recently purchased.

They had been talking about the girl from the west who had asked for work at Rider's, the story quickly gaining circulation. Rev. Smith said, "More than likely this is the person. Shall we stop and take her in?"

Mrs. Eminhizer is not well and needed someone to assist her at home so Rev. Eminhizer replied in the affirmative.

At the Eminhizer home she was questioned closely, but gave little desired information. During the evening Mrs. Harry Thompson, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Eminhizer, visited her parents and it was arranged to take Miss Fuller to the Thompson home, at the Edward J. Haupt farm, north of town, to work.

Miss Fuller went to work with a will on Tuesday morning and the authorities learned she was there. In the meantime, however, she secured a large butcher knife and cut off her hair. Then, with her face blackened, she started from the Haupt Place unseen. She stopped next at the L. H. Gettig home on North Thomas St., where she was received, urged to clean up and given some fit clothing.

Mrs. Thompson, alarmed when she noted Miss Fuller was gone, quickly called the District Attorney's office and soon Miss Fuller was taken into custody at the Gettig home. When it was found that she had hidden the big knife in her clothing, there was fear that she might do something to regret unless she was taken in charge. She was then placed in the Bellefonte jail, while an effort to get in communication with her father and brother in Washington was made.

Miss Fuller's father came to Bellefonte yesterday and this morning he took her with him to Washington, D. C., where it is expected to give her medical attention that may bring her a return to normal health.

Miss Fuller, whose home is in Washington, D. C., had come to the J. W. Clark home at Waddle about a month ago to visit and seek better health. Something seemed to be worrying her very much and her nerves appeared shattered. Usually a jolly girl with a disposition that won her many friends, she was said to be very melancholy of time.

Mr. Clark, who is constable in Patton Twp., and one of the best known residents of that section of the county, called at "The Republican" office on Tuesday. His story was given to us as follows:

"Miss Fuller was a charming young woman, 19 years old, and she visited with us 3 years ago, after the death of her mother, remaining here for 6 months. She was such a jolly girl that you could not help but like her.

"This time she was so changed. She would seldom talk, she seemed downcast and to be worrying over something. It may be that she was disappointed in a love affair, as has been rumored, but I never heard her say anything about it and could not say that it is true. But something did make her worry a great deal.

"I was called to Hollidaysburg on business and was away Saturday. It may be that my being absent had something to do with her deciding to go away. Whatever it was that troubled her, seemed to have unbalanced her mind. She went with Mrs. Clark as far as the church and then made an excuse to return home.

"She had never said anything about being dissatisfied and nothing was thought of the remark until Mrs. Clark returned home and discovered that she was missing. If I had been home, I would have notified the authorities at once, but Mrs. Clark made a search, calling for the girl and looking everywhere imaginable until about 1 o'clock, when from sheer exhaustion the search was given up until the following morning with the thought that Miss Fuller would perhaps return.

"When she did not return, the district attorney was called. That was about 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

"Miss Fuller was formerly employed in the Civil Service at Washington, D. Co., and left the office on account of nervous trouble. Her father, E. J. Fuller, is in Washington, D. C., and she has a brother, Budd, in the same city, but they roomed at different places, the home being broken up when her mother died. The father sent her candy and medicine at intervals while she was visiting here. We can't understand why she went away. But something was worrying her. Besides her father and brother, she has a younger sister, Miss Ruth Fuller.

"Her mother was well known to persons residing in Bellefonte years ago. Mrs. Fuller's maiden name was Mary Parsons, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parsons, deceased, the former conducting a confectionery store and doing shoe repair work at a stand located where the Darius Waite farm supplies and implements store is now located on South Water St. I am a brother of Mrs. Fuller, but called myself Clark when adopted by a family of that name after the death of father, which occurred when I was 13 years old, mother passing from this life when I was about 4 months old.

"Miss Fuller is about 5 feet, 8 inches in height. She weighed 122 pounds when in normal health, is slender and pretty, with medium brown hair and a fair complexion. I am not so sure about her eyes, but think they were a dark blue.

"Mr. Bloom—Corl Bloom—a neighbor was the first to tell us of seeing her after she had left home. He said she wore a dark slouch hat, a brown coat and a pair of khaki trousers which seemed too short for her. He said he thought she was a bum and that she was walking along the Bellefonte Central railroad tracks toward Bellefonte.

"The clothing she was wearing was old clothes of mine. She had small feet, so kept on her own footgear—a pair of pretty sport oxfords in grey. She couldn't very easily have worn my heavy shoes.

"She burned everything almost that she had about the house and we found burned matches lying all about on the floor. It was fortunate that she did not start a fire. We have been very much worried and there has been little sleep for any of us."

After getting the belated word of the young woman's strange action, District Attorney James C. Furst enlisted the aid of Sheriff Harry Dukeman and they prepared a net over the countryside in which to locate Miss Fuller.

To Help Armenians.

An informal piano recital for the benefit of Armenian children will be given at the residence of Miss Mary Linn, Allegheny street, on May 19th, at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Those listed on the program are the Misses Emily and Marion Warner, Lois Kurtz, Virginia and Daisy Hughes, Mary Harvey, Louise Barnhart, Jean Blanchard, Elizabeth Hunter, Mildred Brown and Sarah Smith. As this is Music Week, the young folks felt it would be appropriate, with the aid of their delightful art, to do something for the Armenians aid. A silver offering will be gratefully appreciated.

Vacation Bible School Here.

Bellefonte is to have a daily vacation Bible School, starting Monday, June 18th, and continuing until July 12th. Classes will be conducted from 9 a. m. until 11.30, and will be open for children of 6 to 11 years. The project is being fostered by the Bellefonte Ministerium. The study will centre around the person of Christ. Lives of prominent Bible characters will be studied. Missionary and Bible stories will be told in an interesting manner. Some of the beautiful passages of the Bible will be memorized, and there will also be periods for singing, drawing and games.

WATCH RIGHT OF WAY

Motorist Collided With Truck at Street Intersection.

That there are some motorists who do not clearly understand that the right-of-way to any traffic is to the person on the right and is not judged by importance of the thoroughfare, was indicated in an accident last Friday evening which occurred at the intersection of Howard and Allegheny streets. Fortunately no person was hurt but a Ford touring car and a truck were considerably damaged.

The Ford car was owned by Merrill Lucas, who resides north of Milesburg. It was occupied by his son, John Lucas, who is employed in the silk mill at Bellefonte, and who was accompanied by two girl employes whom he was taking home. He was driving northward on Allegheny street and presumably was under the impression that he had the right of-way, so that he failed to stop when a truck, driven from East Howard street by Warren Hines, of the Beezer garage, neared the intersection of the streets at the same time.

As the result of the apparent misunderstanding of the law which gives the right-of-way always to the man on the right, the Ford touring car was driven into the truck, striking it about the centre.

DeMolay Institution May 28.

The Penn—Centre Chapter of the Order of DeMolay for boys will be formally instituted in the opera house in Bellefonte, on the evening of May 28 with elaborate ceremony, before a large audience composed of Masons and Knights Templar. A class of boys in ages from 16 to 20 years that will number close to 100, coming from all parts of the county, and some from adjacent counties will receive the two degrees in full ceremonial form.

The Chapter here is sponcered by the Commandery of Knights Templar of Bellefonte and therefore will be instituted by a turnout of the Templars on that evening and under their supervision. A dispensation has been issued by the Grand Commander of Penns. for a public appearance in full Templar uniform and a parade will be had before the ceremony in the opera house to escort the Right Eminent Grand Commander Ralph Minehart, of Pittsburgh, assisted by a number of members of the Commanderies from Lock Haven, Lewistown, Philipsburg, Altoona, Huntingdon and Williamsport, bringing many distinguished visitors from those places. The parade will be headed by Wetzler's Band and following the Templars will be the boy candidates.

Neighbors Attention.

The Keystone class adoption of Modern Woodmen of America, including the camps of Milroy, Millheim, Port Matilda, State College and Bellefonte with over 100 candidates will take place in the Bellefonte armory, Friday evening, May 18th, at 7:00 o'clock. The meeting will be preceded by a parade by the M. W. A. band, of State College, and the I. O. O. F. band of Bellefonte. The committee requests the presence of every neighbor in order to make this meeting a success. Supreme Organizer Ralph E. Johnson, of Lincoln, Nebraska, and State Deputy Wychoff, of Pittsburgh will be guests of honor.

Blind Organist Coming May 29.

Prof. Harry J. Ditzler, blind organist, will give a recital of varied organ numbers in St. John's Lutheran Church Tuesday evening May 29th at 8 o'clock. Mr. Ditzler although a comparatively young man has gained much prominence as an organist doing recital work, and comes to Bellefonte highly recommended. He has been blind since he was two years of age. Mr. Ditzler is a graduate of the Overbrook School for the blind, and also of the organ department of Combs Conservatory of Music under the personal direction of Russell King Miller. He is a member of the American Guild of Organists.

Vail Crossing Eliminated.

By a decision of the P. S. C. on last Thursday, the grade crossing at Vail, along the Bald Eagle valley highway near Tyrone, will be eliminated by Oct. 21, 1923, at a cost of $99,021.38. The Penna. Railroad Co. pays $52,039.78; the state highway department, $44,981.60; Blair County, $5,000 and Snyder Township, $500. The crossing will be eliminated by erection of a modern concrete bridge, over which the roadbed will be continued, giving clearance for four tracks.

Allison—Harter.

Saturday noon, May 12, at the Reformed parsonage, Bellefonte, J. I. Austin Allison, of Philadelphia, and Miss Rosetta M. Harter, of Howard, were married by the Rev. Dr. A. M. Schmidt. Mr. and Mrs. Allison will make their future home in Philadelphia, where Mr. Allison is employed.

FROSTS HURT FRUIT IN SOME PARTS OF COUNTY

Opinions From Good Authorities Not so Favorable.

LATE APPLES NOT HURT

Opinions from scattered and authoritative sources indicate that early fruit in Penn's valley, Nittany and Buffalo Run valleys has been hurt by May frosts, especially noticeable last Friday and on Monday mornings. Early risers say the frost on Monday morning in and near Bellefonte, was very heavy. All reports say the late apples are still considered safe.

County Farm Bureau Agent J. N. Robinson, on Monday morning said: "I have not examined blossoms this morning but have reports from a number of farmers that show the fruit was hurt in some sections of the county and not hurt in other places. Just about Bellefonte, it seems that the early fruits, sweet cherries and plums, are killed and a crop cannot be expected."

The Fisher farms at Unionville, where the largest orchards in the county are located, made a very favorable report. Mrs. Fisher, the manager, said: "Everything here is safe. We watched particularly on last Thursday night and early Friday morning. The thermometer did not go below 32 and an inspection of the blossoms showed that even the sweet cherries and plums, the most likely of any of the fruit to be hurt, were still safe. The indications here, so far, are very promising."

In answer to some other queries, Mrs. Fisher said: "We now have about five acres in strawberries and they have not been hurt by the frosts. Last year we had about 1,000 bushels of apples but it was the off-year. This is our good year. The best year we had was several years ago, when the entire crop, including cider apples, was close to 15,000 bushels. Hay and wheat fields in Bald Eagle valley, are looking fine."

M. A. Burkholder, one of the big and successful farmers of Penn's valley, was questioned and said: "The hay crop is favorable. There is a good stand of grass but it is short. The rains will boost it a lot. Wheat will not be as good as last year but is not too bad. The oats is just coming through and looks nice. With favorable weather, most of the corn will be planted this week. Last year I raised 1,200 bushels of potatoes on something more than six acres of land."

"You sold most of them at about $1 per bushel, did you not, Mr. Burkholder?" was asked.

"I should say not," was the reply. "I sold most of them but did not get a dollar per bushel for any of them. Most of them were sold wholesale. For 600 bushels last fall I got 60 cents per bushel and for the balance I got anywhere up to 80 cents, but not above that."

"How is the fruit?" was asked.

"There was a heavy frost here last Friday morning and I am afraid the early fruit in this valley won't amount to much. Of course, you can't be sure about the fruit just yet."

E. E. Swartz, of Pleasant Gap, who retired from the farm several years ago but still keeps a close eye on the fruit and crops, said: "I was down to Zion last week and wheat doesn't look very good. The grass has a good stand, thick on the ground, but it is short and will need good growing weather to make a crop. I have not had a chance to look at the fruit and would not like to say anything about it."

Prof. F. N. Fagan, of the Pennsylvania State College, head of the division of pomology, made an inspection of fruit on Monday morning after the heavy frost at Bellefonte and reported that about State College indications were that everything was still safe.

We find the fruit is not hurt. The cherries, the peaches and the plums are nice and green. The apples are not far enough advanced to be hurt.—From Scotia items.

The Academy Minstrels.

Tonight and tomorrow night are special nights in the Academy year. The Academy minstrels will be presented at the opera house. The added features by the local quartette and by the High School talent will add to the best program ever put on, according to Prof. J. R. Hughes, the headmaster. Kill two birds with one stone by seeing an evening entertainment worth while. Musical features alone are worth the price. And help with the fund to put in an assured water supply to keep the popular Hughes' Memorial swimming pond in the very best condition.

Los Angeles Woman Tells of Wonderful Experience.

MRS. GUSSIE E. HANSEN.

Mrs. Gussie E. Hansen, of 916 West 62nd Street, is now numbered with the multitude of Los Angeles men and women who have realized the wonderful merits of Tanlac. In relating her experiences, Mrs. Hansen said:

"It is wonderful what Tanlac will do for one suffering from stomach trouble, nervousness and run-down condition. I have tried it.

"Before taking the treatment everything I ate disagreed with me so that I actually dreaded to sit down to the table. I suffered from constipation, had awful pains across my back, and was so nervous and run down I was in misery all the time.

"Tanlac was helping so many others I thought it might help me, too, and it certainly has. Why, my appetite is just splendid, and my stomach is in such good order I eat to my heart's content. My back doesn't bother me any more, and I sleep like a child at night. I can't say too much for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists—take no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

There's no hope for an old bachelor who can't induce even a widow to marry him.

BALKY MARE REFUSES GUIDANCE OF THIEVES

"Tessie" Whisks to Dinner and Leads Three Robbers Into Hands of Police.

New York.—A balky mare that refused to yield either to gentle or violent efforts at persuasion by three alleged horse thieves, frustrated the theft and was responsible for the imprisonment of the trio.

"Tessie," her owner, Walter Devlin, proprietor of a West Fifty-second street livery establishment, calls the mare. The police who seized Tessie's would-be abductors consider that she has more intelligence than some humans.

Attached to a funeral coach, the mare stood at Third avenue and Ninety-second street at noon. Her driver was in a nearby restaurant. A man climbed aboard the driver's seat and two piled inside the coach. Tessie obediently whisked them down Third avenue. Several times the driver sought to turn her into a side street. But it was the mare's dinner time, too, and she obstinately held to her course down Third avenue until she reached Fifty-second street.

There she turned west, her driver powerless to guide her elsewhere, and continued on until she reached her owner's stable. There she halted and refused to budge, although two passing detectives and Devlin himself, not recognizing the horse and rig, added their brands of persuasion to that of the trio who had appropriated them. Then Tessie's regular driver, who had been pursuing, ran up and preferred charges against the three alleged thieves, whom the detectives promptly arrested.

RESCUES SISTER FROM SNAKE

Poisonous Reptile Brought Into School by Boy Is Revived by Warmth.

London.—A copper-colored poisonous snake three feet long suddenly made its appearance among 50 children in an elementary school at Morges, near Lausanne, during the temporary absence of the schoolmaster, notes the Geneva correspondent of the London Daily Express.

The reptile appeared angry and ready to strike. The children fled, screaming with terror, save for one little girl, who stood paralyzed by fear as the snake reared its head at her feet. The child's older sister—just nine years old—returned to the room in search of her, and with great bravery dashed a chair on the snake and killed it.

When the schoolmaster returned he found all his pupils gone except the two weeping children with the dead snake at their feet.

It was afterward ascertained that a boy found the snake in a half-frozen condition and hid it in one of the school cupboards, where the warmth from an adjacent stove revived it.

FINGERS ARE SEWED IN PLACE

Lad May Regain Use of Members Crushed in Machine and Stitched Back on Hand.

Baltimore.—Three fingers were sewed back in place on the hand of Kermit Vaughan, thirteen years old, who became caught in a machine in the market stall of Edgar Levy. Physicians say he has an excellent chance to recover their use.

The boy was injured while he was operating the machine. His hand was caught in such a manner that the machine had to be taken to the hospital with the boy.

Piano Sounds Fire Alarm.

Harrisburg, Pa.—An electric piano sounded a fire alarm when a theater caught fire and was partly destroyed.

A passerby heard the piano playing, saw the flames, and sent in an alarm. A short circuit in the piano started the blaze, firemen said.

Millions Wasted in Stale Bread

Food Research Institute Puts Loss Each Year at From Five to Ten Millions.

New York.—Waste in stale bread costs the bakers and consumers of the country from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 each year, according to the Food Research institute, which has just completed a study of the problem, says the New York Times. As a means of reducing this loss, non-acceptance of return loaves, either through new laws, or action on the part of bakers, more efficient deliveries and better quality of output, are suggested by the institute. The principal source of loss is the return of bread to the bakers after it has become unsalable. The institute quotes the United States food administration as estimating that in 1917 the loss from the return of stale bread amounted to "upward of 600,000 barrels" of flour a year.

The loss varies greatly in different bakeries in the same city, and at various times. Replies to questionnaires sent out by the institute indicated a very low average on the Pacific coast and a relatively high percentage in the northeastern states.

The Food Research institute was established at Stanford university in 1921, at the suggestion of Herbert Hoover, by the joint action of the university and the Carnegie corporation, for the study of problems in the production, distribution and consumption of food. It is concentrating its efforts for the present on problems related to wheat and wheat products, and it was as a part of this work that it studied certain economic phases of the baking industry.

Losses From Stale Bread.

"Losses from stale bread constitute an important item of cost for large numbers of wholesale bakers, and to some extent for retail bakers as well," says a summary of the survey. "Large stale bread losses tend to raise the price of bread to consumers and to threaten the financial position of the baker. Moreover, since stale bread is largely used for animal feed, or even for fuel, whenever considerable volume must be disposed of the loss occasions a needless waste of food.

"Our study leads to the conclusion that, under proper conditions, stale bread losses exceeding 1 per cent of production are excessive, and that a figure of one-half of 1 per cent is an attainable standard. Losses above 1 per cent reflect objectionable trade practices, poor business management or both.

"Acceptance of returns of unsold bread from dealers is by all odds the leading factor in such losses wherever the loss is high. Where this practice prevails the loss is almost sure to be excessive. The abandonment of the common practice of taking back unsold bread from dealers is essential to the solution of the stale-bread problem. This change of policy would reduce certain dangers of food contamination as well as tend to cut down waste. The success of a no-returns policy, however, requires careful attention to other measures calculated to insure that bread reaches the consumer fresh.

Needed in Sale of Bread.

"The principal requirements are the following: Bread of a high-keeping quality must be baked, so that bread a day or two old may be readily salable as fresh. Reasonable effort must be made to keep down the time between the baking of bread and its purchase by consumers. Dealers' requirements must be gauged closely from day to day, with salesmen's orders as a basis, but with adequate use of weather forecasts and other information concerning coming events that affect bread sales. Production must be adjusted carefully to requirements, both in amount and in time. Bakers must cultivate the support of dealers and their own sales force in securing this adjustment. Experience in the trade shows clearly that these measures are entirely practical.

"If they can meet these requirements, individual bakers can successfully enforce a no-returns policy, even when competing bakers take back unsold bread. Competition, however, makes it difficult for concerns to adopt and enforce this policy single-handed. Local agreements among leading wholesalers not to exchange unsold bread often afford a practicable method of abolishing this objectionable practice. Such agreements are in the public interest, but they are not easily adopted, cannot always be enforced, and tend to break down.

"State laws prohibiting returns of unsold bread have recently been adopted in six states. Their constitutionality is sometimes called in question, but has not yet been tested. Although not yet fully observed, they have clearly facilitated reduction in stale bread losses."

Discarded Fiances Fly to "Green Peas"

Berkeley, Cal. — And now comes the "Royal and Mystic Order of the Green Pea."

The latest secret society has been formed on the University of California campus by discarded fiances.

Its object, according to George Smith, its president, is to fight the wiles of cruel co-eds who play up to men students only to cast them aside.

The constitution of the order defines a "green pea" as "one who has had a hard fall, who has suffered at the hands of woman, a man who has been jilted in love."

The constitution provides also that the "greenest of the green peas" shall automatically become president.

Oyster Beds in Atlantic in Danger of Extinction

Washington, D. C.—Extinction of the oysters in Atlantic coast waters is threatened by continued pollution of the oyster beds through industrial wastes, Dr. Thurlow C. Nelson of the board of shell fisheries and state experiment station, New Brunswick, N. J., told delegates to the seventh annual convention of the Central Atlantic States Association of American Dairy, Food, and Drugs Officials.

Alaskans Honor Early Explorer

Hospital to Be Built in Memory of Hudson Stuck, Cowboy, Reporter and Clergyman.

Seattle, Wash.—The Alaskan Indian and Eskimo friends of the late Hudson Stuck, cowboy, newspaper reporter and minister, and finally missionary, explorer and author, are planning a hospital to his memory on a knoll overlooking the Yukon river, four miles inside the Arctic circle.

Archdeacon Stuck is the man who first made the ascent of Mount McKinley; or, as he called it, Mount Denali, giving it the Indian name. The official records of the climb are among the archives of the American Geographical society, of which he was a member, and to which they were turned over, on his death, two years ago, by the Episcopal church, in whose missionary service he was engaged the greater part of his life. Stuck, who was also a Fellow of the Royal Geographical society, has related the story of his perilous adventure in "The Ascent of Denali," which was published in 1914.

Distinguished Ancestor.

The blood of Hendrik Hudson flowed through the veins of Hudson Stuck. It was probably from this distinguished ancestor that he inherited the love of adventure, which carried him all the way from cowboy, post rider and newspaper man in Texas, to his life work for the Episcopal church in the frozen north. An archdeacon of the Yukon, Stuck, in 1917, established St. Stephen's hospital at Fort Yukon, and through that unpretentious institution, was instrumental in saving the lives of hundreds of Indians and Eskimos, and not a few white men of a dozen nationalities, to whom the little log hospital was the one haven of safety and succor within a radius of a thousand miles of Arctic wilderness.

During his career in Alaska, Stuck covered literally thousands of miles in his journeys by dog-sled and motor launch and not infrequently afoot, ministering to his charges, extending a helping hand to all in need, and noting by the way those details of life and adventure which, in "Ten Thousand Miles With a Dog-sled," "Voyages on the Yukon and Its Tributaries," and "A Winter Circuit of Our Arctic Coast," have been read by thousands of lovers of the open road and the upward trail. Long before his fame as an explorer and an author had spread over the civilized world he had become known throughout the territory for his humanitarian work, and it is chiefly as the missionary and friend of the native that he is known in that region today.

Stuck's Grave Indian Shrine.

When he died two years ago and was buried, according to his wish, in the native graveyard not far from the hospital and church which he had established, the natives erected a cross over the hillock, which is today their shrine. Stuck is to them a "dry wood" man. Among the Siwash, the wise man in making camp selects, instead of green or soggy timber, that which is dry and seasoned and will therefore burn long and furnish both light and heat. So, in the Takuah language of the Yukon the natives praying at the grave of Stuck say of him, that "His light burns bright and won't go out."

Not content with the cross which marks his grave, the natives at a recent meeting determined to enlarge and improve the hospital which he founded and make it a permanent memorial to him. There were Eskimos, Indians, trappers, traders and miners present at the meeting, as well as representatives from the adjacent posts of the Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Methodist and Baptist churches, in all about thirty or forty men, and within a few minutes $1,760 was subscribed toward the fund of $25,000 necessary for the purpose. Since then, according to Dr. Grafton Burke, the physician in charge at Fort Yukon, contributions received in sums of from 25 cents to $10, and coming mostly from the natives, have swelled the amount to $9,000. It is expected that the friends and admirers of Hudson Stuck, those who have read and enjoyed his books, and his former associates in the geographical societies of the United States and England, will speedily make up the balance of the fund.

Uncle Sam to Make Fine Dairy Display

Preparation of the largest and most extensive single exhibit feature ever undertaken by the United States Department of Agriculture is now under way in the office of exhibits in Washington. It is being constructed to portray the development of the dairy industry of the country, and will be shown at the National Dairy show in Syracuse, N. Y., in October. The exhibit will combine a model of a dairy farm and a background painted so as to complete the illusion of a vast farm. Charles A. Corwin is shown above working on the great painting.

Shut That Door!

This common command will soon be out of date, if a recent inventor has his way. His device slips over the hinge of any door and prevents it from standing open; and at the same time it can be slipped off the hinge and under the door to serve as a door stop and hold it in any desired open or partly open position. In connection with this double duty, it is necessary to point out that no screws are required for attaching the little spring-and-wing outfit. To attach, the wings are simply bent toward one another and the spring slipped over the hinge. Removal is just as quick and easy as attachment.—Scientific American.

MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Applications Should Be Made Now Camp Begins June 26.

The aim is to promote good citizenship and an interest in the National defense. The camps are open to all men between 17 and 25 years, who are of good character, intelligence and good physical condition. No educational qualifications are prescribed but each candidate must file certificates of good character, signed by a school master, clergyman, priest or rabbi, together with medical testimony from a qualified physician as to hearing, eye-sight, heart action and general physical condition.

The Government will pay expenses, including transportation, uniforms, foods, medical care, and emergency dental attention.

Enrollment implies no latter service obligations, although it is hoped that the men who attend will be inclined thereafter to enroll with the National Guard or Reserves.

There will be opportunity for play, recreation and entertainment. Athletics, including group games, field and track sports and mass play, have a place in the training program. Bands, orchestras and entertainments will be organized among the students. There will be moving pictures, amateur and professional dramatic and musical entertainments.

Additional information may be secured from Arthur Dale at his office on High Street, Bellefonte, or Captain Russell George, Armory, Bellefonte.

One month, from June 26th to July 25th, at Camp Meade, Md. for applicants without previous CMTC training. For applicants with previous CMTC training or its equivalent, Camp Meade, Md., for Infantry, Field Artillery, Cavalry and Engineers; Fort Monroe, Va. for Coast Artillery.

As the allotted number to this camp is small all applications should be submitted immediately.

SOLD COLLEGE STEERS

F. L. Winner, of Lock Haven, Was Successful Bidder.

The sixty fat young steers used for experimental feeding purposes at State College, have been purchased by Forney L. Winner, proprietor of the Winner abattoir, of Lock Haven, where they will be slaughtered and the meat supplied to Mr. Winner's wholesale customers and at his meat market in that city.

The cattle which were secured from the best stock in the yards at Chicago were fed on a variety of feed for 130 days to test out the meat and fat producing qualities of the feed. The average gain of the animals in weight was 2½ pounds a day. They were secured by Mr. Winner at an auction sale in keen competition with bidders of other packing plants.

THE BANK CHECK

Is probably the most useful business convenience we have. No wonder that it has come into universal use. It goes everywhere; no place is too near or too remote.

One opens a letter and sees a check; it may be from next door or a thousand miles distant. Yet there is always a little thrill of interest for it represents something vital, and is an experience that does not grow old.

A check transfers money and pays bills, furnishing an automatic receipt. The evidence of payment it gives is conclusive. It furnishes a record of expenditures. A history of your business. It tells you where you could have saved. It is a mute witness of thrift or extravagance.

There are still a few people, not many—who do not have checking accounts.

If you are one of these, come to see us.

OVER THE COUNTY

A number of farmers delayed planting of corn and potatoes because of the lingering of winter in the lap of spring.

Two black bears, male and female, weighing about 175 pounds each, were liberated in the Big Kettle, in the Seven mountains, one day last week. They were caught in Potter County.

Our mountains are beginning to assume that beautiful springtime dress and motoring is delightful along state roads but rather rough on other sections. State highways make motoring a delight.

Children's Day services, generally held the first Sunday in June, are receiving most attention at the various churches throughout the county now. Some very pretty exercises have been prepared for this year.

Mrs. W. H. Baluser has sold her general store at Potters Mills to Emerson Ennist and William Hannah, two young men who will continue the business.

Ira Shultz, of Spring Bank, had severe bruises of one of his ankles when his foot got caught in a chain gear while operating the tractor on his farm.

The famous Wetzler's Boys' band of Milesburg, in their attractive uniforms made another hit for themselves and Centre County, last week at the gathering of Red Men in Lock Haven. The Lock Haven Express, in part says, they "received an ovation all along the line for their natty uniforms and the high class of music rendered. It is an organization of which the Centre County town may well feel proud."

Benore

Those who were afflicted with the measles are well again. There were some twenty cases here in town and the doctor was called only once. Mother was the doctor that did the work.

When we stepped from the house early on last Wednesday morning and saw the snow, we felt so sorry for the farmer who did not have his corn husked. "Oh," the good wife said, "this is spring and they do not have the corn planted yet." Then we thought it was a dream but it was not. And then an argument started. Did you ever see such a late snow? was the question. The old gentleman won. He recalled that 28 years ago, on the 30th day of May, as a member of the Scotia band, he was at Baileyville to play and the band had to seek cover back of the church to get out of a snow storm.

On Monday afternoon, the 7th, there were two of the hottest forest fires we have ever had about here, one to the south of Benore and the other to the south of Stormstown. The first fire started at 11:30 a. m. at the west end of the W. G. Runkle farm and by 1 o'clock it was at Scotia, having burned about three miles. The other fire started at 1 p. m. and at 6 o'clock it was at the L. C. Stevens (Ghaner) farm. It burned over an area of two square miles and destroyed some of the Blair buildings at the Blair bank. One of the Emerick busses brought about twenty Academy boys to help fight the fire and they did very good work under H. L. Rider, of Marengo, the fire boss. It was not until 1 o'clock on Tuesday morning, however, that the fire was under control. At the first fire, in the neighborhood of 200 Penn State students and all the farmers about here, worked under the Scotia fire boss, W. H. Ghaner. This was the hottest and biggest fire. It burned over 2,000 acres. The other burned over 800 acres. The two fires approached each another until they were separated only by a strip about a mile wide.

SIX THOUSAND CARLOADS OF TELEPHONE MATERIAL WILL BE ADDED TO THE BELL SYSTEM IN PENNSYLVANIA THIS YEAR

THIS material is required to care for the twenty-five million dollar construction program which is now under way.

To accomplish the work, three cars loaded with telephone equipment must leave the factories for every hour of working time throughout the year.

This is the most tremendous telephone construction program ever undertaken in this state.

During the past three years we have installed more equipment than in any six previous years.

The 1923 program is a continuation of our efforts to furnish a comprehensive telephone service in Pennsylvania.

WHY TAKE LAXATIVES?

Discovery by Science Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

As Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, it cannot gripe and, like pure water, it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

Same Thing.

A Detroit clergyman relates that one day he was called upon to marry a couple. His catechism of the prospective bridegroom was satisfactory, and he turned his attention to the lady.

"Yes, sir!"

"Husband dead?"

"No, sir!"

"Are you divorced?"

"N—no, not exactly, but I'm just as good as divorced. My husband left me, and we never paid the minister for marrying us."—From Judge.

LOCKED IN ROOM WITH HUGE SNAKE

Wife of Museum Director in Desperate Battle for Life With 14-Foot Python.

USES TRUNK AS SHIELD

Port Elizabeth, Natal.—Mrs. F. W. Fitzsimmons, wife of the director of the Port Elizabeth museum, does not mind if she never sees a python again.

The python was caught in a sugar plantation at Mid Illovo, Natal, and sent to the Port Elizabeth museum. Though not large, as pythons go—a mere 14 feet long—it was a sturdy reptile, as thick as a man's thigh.

Before installing it in a cage in the grounds, Mr. Fitzsimmons had it dumped into a small room on the sunny side of the balcony of his house. In this little room was a trunk used for storing odds and ends.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons wanted something from this trunk in the morning.

Door Locked.

While she was rummaging in the trunk the wind slammed the door and she was horrified to find herself a prisoner, for there was no knob on the inner side.

Presently the great snake, which had been watching her intently, prepared for attack, gathering up its heavy, sinuous coils in readiness to deliver the sledge-hammer blow that precedes its constriction.

Trying to Deter It With Her Stick.

After trying to deter it with her stick, Mrs. Fitzsimmons turned the trunk on end and used it as a shield. Taking advantage of its confusion, Mrs. Fitzsimmons clambered on the trunk, flung open the little window high up on the wall and shouted again for help.

Scared Women.

The cook and housemaid came at last, but were too scared to dare to open the door. They brought in a passing butcher, however, who released their mistress.

Next day the kaffir, who looks after the institution's snakes—a big, strong fellow—was sent up to get the snake into a large mealie sack and take it off on a wheelbarrow to its cage. The moment he seized the python's neck it flung its coils around him, pinning one arm to his side.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons, hearing the servant's shriek, ran up and calmly took charge of the crisis. Ordering the man to grip the snake's head tightly with his free hand, if he valued his life, she gripped its tail and, by dint of strenuous exertion, unwound it sufficiently to divert its attention long enough to enable the kaffir to break loose. Then more helpers were brought and it was secured at last.

WANTS NURSE FOR HIS DOG

Chance for Matrimony to Follow in Case Applicant Falls in Love With Pup.

Philadelphia.—Unable to get a housekeeper through the usual employment channels, Howard L. Davis, poultryman and dog fancier, of New Egypt, N. J., is advertising through local newspapers for "a nurse for a thoroughbred, pedigreed, registered fox terrier pup." Davis admits in his advertisement his object may be matrimony, "if the applicant falls in love with the pup."

"Big wages to the right party" says Davis' advertisement. Requirements are to care for the pup and get his owner a couple of meals a day, make his bed and keep his house clean. City talent need not apply. I don't want a dead one, but one who won't miss jazz, two-step and movies, as I am too busy to take her around until next July. Applicant must like to listen in on the radio. I have a good one."

Days of Pony Express to Be Commemorated

Plans for a great celebration commemorating the days of the pony express have been arranged to take place in St. Joseph, Mo., the chief feature of which will be a pony express race to San Francisco, with the riders starting from St. Joseph on August 28 next. The illustration shows the famous old Edgar House in St. Joseph, which will be used in the celebration; the monument marking the place whence the first pony express started, photographed with Col. William F. Cody at the time of its dedication in 1912, and Charles Waddles, vice president of the Pony Express Memorial association and president of the St. Joseph chamber of commerce.

Churches Make Record Growth

Federal Council Reports Increase of 1,220,428 Members in U. S. in Year.

Washington.—America apparently is growing more religious. Figures now made public by Dr. E. O. Watson, statistician of the Federal Council of Churches, show that the religious bodies in the United States made their greatest growth during last year. The increase is 1,220,428 members over the previous year.

The present membership of all religious bodies according to the latest available figures is 47,461,558. This increase is approximately 50 per cent greater than the average for the preceding five years. There was a gain of 9,591 congregations and 15,252 ministers. The total number of congregations is now 243,590. They are led by 214,583 ministers.

According to these figures, church representatives point out that each day in 1922 an average of 3,345 persons joined the various religious bodies; 42 ministers were ordained or licensed; and 26 congregations were organized.

The shortage in clergy is not as great as the fact that there are 29,007 more congregations than ministers would indicate. Many pastors, especially in rural districts, have charge of two or more congregations. Besides, a number of missions and rural churches are served by laymen. This activity on the part of laymen is one of the significant features of the year.

Roman Catholic Membership.

Owing to different methods adopted by the various bodies in computing their membership it is hard to make comparisons. The Roman Catholic church shows a membership of 18,104,804 persons. Its figures represent estimated church population and include all baptized persons. Evangelical Protestant churches show a membership of 27,454,080. They count communicants only.

The thirty bodies related to the Federal Council of Churches report a total membership of 20,722,142 persons. They have 149,436 congregations, served by 119,077 ministers. Their gain in membership over last year is 869,261. Their total constituency is now 59,021,718 persons.

The total religious constituency of the country is placed at 98,878,367 persons. Church officials define constituency to mean all baptized persons, all adherents, and all those who in the supreme test of life or death, turn to communion.

Church Bodies Compared.

When the figures of the various churces are placed on a comparable basis through methods agreed upon by church and government officials, the constituency of the great bodies is reported as follows:

Protestant	78,113,481
Roman Catholic	18,104,804
Jews	1,600,000
Latter Day Saints (Mormons)	604,082
Eastern Orthodox (Greek and Russian)	456,054

The Jewish figures are the same as used last year. They are computed on a different basis from the various Christian bodies because of their great variation in methods of counting membership. The Jewish authorities estimate the Jewish population of the United States at more than 3,300,000.

Though some of the larger bodies have not reported on their expenditures, the figures already in hand show that the churches raised $16,628,894 more than last year. The total reported to date is $505,052,978.

The great increase in membership is due largely to the gains of the Roman Catholic church, which shows an increase of 219,158; the Methodist Episcopal church, 122,975; the Southern Baptist Convention, 97,116, and the National Baptist Convention (negro), 74,750. The Roman Catholic figures indicate a decrease in the rate of gain as compared with the annual average for the preceding five years, which was 432,766.

Methodists Lead in Total.

The Methodist churches have the largest constituency in the country, their figures showing 23,253,854 persons. The Baptists form the second largest group and are pressing the Methodists closely with a constituency of 22,869,098 persons. The Roman Catholics are third with 18,104,804 persons. The Lutherans make up the fourth body with 7,043,854 constituency, and the Presbyterians are fifth with 6,726,698 constituency.

Probably the most remarkable gain of the year is that of the Eastern Orthodox churches, which show a 10 per cent increase, jumping from 411,054 to 456,054 members. This is apparently due to the fact that the Greek Orthodox church is more effectively organized and is reaching the Greek immigrants in America.

The Methodist Protestant Church turned a loss during the preceding five years into an increase of 8,000 members. While the Disciples of Christ and the Congregational churches both had a reduction in the number of congregations, they gained respectively 8,826 and 19,046 members.

The Episcopalians doubled their increase of the preceding year, making a gain of 36,818. The Unitarians show a gain of 4,624, which is not quite 4 per cent. This brings their total membership to 108,560.

The Christian Science Church reports 1,799 congregations and 3,598 readers, but gives no figures as to membership. The statistics of the Adventist bodies indicate a loss of 2,567 members, their present membership being 133,666, against 136,233 reported last year. The Latter Day Saints (Mormons) show a constituency gain of 16,164.

The last available figures regarding membership of the larger churches and their gains or losses during the year are:

Northern Baptist Convention, 1,274,250, gain 13,843; Southern Baptist Convention, 3,374,165, gain 97,116; National Baptist Convention (colored), 3,253,733, gain 74,570; other Baptist bodies, 265,387, loss 655; Brethren (German Baptist Dunkers), 136,432, gain 2,322; Christian Church (General Christian Convention), 94,153, loss 2,931; Church of the Nazarene, 47,942, (no gain indicated); Swedenborgian bodies, 7,066, gain 776.

Others Make Gains.

Congregational churches, 838,271, gain 19,046; Disciples of Christ, 1,218,849, gain 8,826; Eastern Orthodox churches, 456,054, gain 50,000; Evangelical church (merger of Evangelical association and United Evangelical church), 259,417, gain 9,321; Evangelical Synod of North America, 317,986, gain 43,126; Evangelical associations, 15,708, gain 188; Friends, 106,548, gain 930; Latter Day Saints (Mormon), 604,082, gain 16,164; Lutherans, 2,515,662, gain 49,017.

Mennonite bodies, 91,603, gain 321; Methodist Episcopal church, 4,279,586, gain 122,975; Methodist Episcopal church, South, 2,405,257, gain 59,190; Methodist Protestant church, 186,275, gain 8,000; other white Methodist bodies, 85,279, gain 109; African Methodist Episcopal church (colored), 551,766; African Methodist Episcopal Zion church (colored), 412,328; Colored Methodist Episcopal church in America, 366,315; Moravian bodies, 32,820, gain 597.

Presbyterian Church United States of America (North), 1,722,254, gain 34,557; Presbyterian Church United States (South), 411,854, gain 14,796; other Presbyterian bodies, 268,284, gain 3,120; Protestant Episcopal church, 1,118,396, gain 36,818; Reformed bodies, 525,161, gain 14,256; Roman Catholic church, 18,104,804, gain 219,158; Salvation Army, 52,291, gain 6,242; Unitarians, 108,560, gain 4,624; United Brethren bodies, 390,472, gain 7,143; Universalists, 58,566.

Ralph R. Nyman, a 400-pound motorman, has been chosen to represent the employees on the board of directors of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company. Nyman was elected president of the Co-operative Welfare association and by virtue of that position becomes a member of the board of directors of the railroad. He has been a motorman for fourteen years.

Find 2,000-Year-Old Skeleton in Scotland

Edinburgh.—A grave, believed to be 2,000 years old, has been discovered in Kincardineshire, Scotland.

Digging on his farm, a Catterline farmer came upon a peculiarly marked slab about four feet below the surface, and under this were four other slabs of larger size. Beneath all was a full-size human skeleton, with an ancient urn beside the skull.

Antiquarians pronounce the grave to be typical of the Bronze age, and experts are further investigating the discovery.

1,000 Students Want to Work Way to Europe

New York.—More college undergraduates than ever before are planning this summer to earn themselves a vacation in Europe.

Transatlantic steamship lines, both passenger and freight, have received over 1,000 applications from college men for opportunities to work their way across the ocean, for study and pleasure.

Each season students have crossed on freighters as hostlers and cattle-tenders, but this year's unusual demand for menial tasks is attributed to a desire to see Europe stimulated by the stories told by returning travelers.

The French steamship lines with terminals in New York have approximately 400 applications on file from colleges in various parts of the country, and expect many more later.

Steamship agencies here point out that the professional sailor is given the preference when it comes to engaging as one of the crew, and only a serious shortage in seamen would permit of an opportunity of working as an able-bodied seaman.

WOMAN'S HEALTH RESTORED

She Claims Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did It After Everything Else Failed

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I feel that I ought to let you know about my case. I was ailing and could barely do my housework and washing I was so run-down, just from having one child. I took a lot of medicines and had doctors. Then I gave them all up and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel wonderfully good now. I do everything that comes along, and we all take your medicine as a tonic when we don't feel just so. I am thankful for what the Vegetable Compound has done for my health and for my family."—Mrs. MARY SAIECHECK, 944 28th Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Letters like these testify to the value of the Vegetable Compound. These women speak from the fullness of their hearts. They describe as correctly as they can their conditions: First, those symptoms that affected them most conspicuously; and later the disappearance of those symptoms. They are sincere expressions of gratitude. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

"I Only Wish Mothers Would Use More of Father John's Medicine."

Mothers will be interested in this letter from Mrs. Robertson. She says: "If all mothers would only try Father John's Medicine they would never be without it in the house. In January my two boys had the measles. After they got up I began giving them Father John's Medicine. They began eating better and their cough stopped. Since then Father John's Medicine has been our stand-by. I only wish mothers would use more of this medicine. They would have less doctor's bills." (Signed) Mrs. F. Robertson, 9 Whipple Place, Greenwich, N. Y.

SAD WELCOME AWAITS THEM

Mother, Brother, Sweetheart, En Route From Europe Will Find Young Soldier Dead.

Louis Kosmen is dead in a St. Paul, Minn., hospital.

From somewhere in Central Europe an aged widowed mother, a dark-haired lass of nineteen and a lad of fourteen recently started on a long awaited journey to far-off America to rejoin the son, sweetheart and big brother, believed to be ready to greet them after years of separation.

For eighteen long years Louis Kosmen had pursued the blue bird of happiness. Through prosperity and poverty, on battlefields and in hospitals he had followed, always with the dream that some day he would be able to send for the loved ones to come to him in the promised land of America.

At last Kosmen believed he could see the fulfillment of his dreams. Through the aid of his American Legion pals with whom he had served in the World war, the red tape of government immigration regulations had been cut and he had cabled word to the waiting loved ones that they should come to him in his American home. The lines of fatigue faded from his toil-worn face and the discouraged droop disappeared from his shoulders as he thought of seeing once more his mother and little brother and his promised bride.

Then came illness. The doctor told him that disease contracted while serving in the American army during the war would necessitate an operation. Recently he went onto the operating table. The next day he was dead.

When but a lad of fifteen, Kosmen, heir of a once wealthy and influential Albanian family, had been sent to Greece to escape the Turks. His father was killed by them. Before he left he was betrothed, according to the custom of his country, to baby Aspasia Gerdan. In following years he fought the Turks, served in their prisons, was wounded, escaped and finally came to the United States where he set to work to build up a comfortable home for his remaining loved ones. Ill fortune pursued him. After accumulating considerable money he lost it in a business venture. Then America, the land of his adoption, entered the war and he followed the flag to the front.

In spite of broken health from the military service he had set at work once more to build up a fortune for his family and believed his ambition was attained when death claimed him.

TO CO-OPERATE WITH BUREAU

Legion Will Assist Veterans' Branch in Aiding Former Warriors Serving Time in Institutions.

The American Legion will co-operate with the United States veterans' bureau in the extension of vocational training and medical rehabilitation to the 18,000 veterans of the World war serving sentences in federal and state penal institutions, Joe Sparks, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, has announced.

Veterans' bureau officials believe that there are many men now serving sentences who may be unaware that the bureau is interested in their well-being, and possibly others whose imprisonment may be due to conditions resulting from war service. Of the 18,000 imprisoned, only about 2,000 are receiving benefits from the bureau.

Legion officials may be named by courts as guardians for mentally disabled veterans under the proposed plan. Many mentally incompetent ex-service men are said to be suffering from lack of proper guardianship, and their condition renders them incapable of instituting court action in their favor.

It is probable that the new plan will first be tried out in the federal prisons at Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Island, Seattle. Veterans' bureau physicians, mental specialists and vocational educators would be permitted to survey the institutions to determine the nature of rehabilitation measures to be taken. The plan may later include parole of prisoners under care of the American Legion or welfare organizations, while they could be sent to vocational schools elsewhere if facilities for such education were not available at the penal institutions.

"The Canada of Vimy Ridge."

"The Canada of Vimy Ridge," as it is described, is soon to become a reality on that historical spot where the Canadians stemmed the tide of German invaders of France. Where now is but the barren, war-torn field, is soon to blossom with the trees and flowers of Canada, transplanted with loving care from their native land to France. The project is in the hands of a commission named from Canada. France has granted 250 acres of land for memorial purposes. Walter Allward, Toronto sculptor, now in France, was designed the monuments which mark the spot. He was able to place the principal memorial at a point from which may be seen the desolated lands tramped over by Canadian soldiers many to die there. The land will be created into a park.

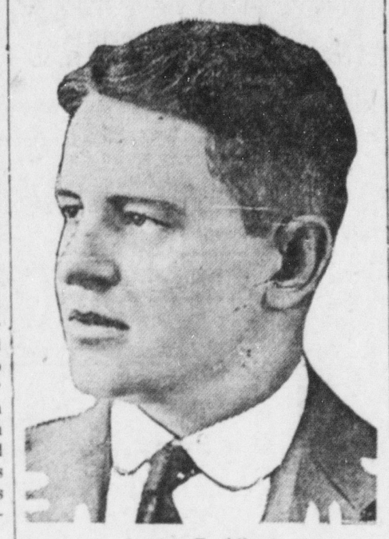
LEGION WORKER HAS NO LEGS

State Adjutant of the Department of Idaho Does Not Allow Handicap to Interfere.

Handicapped? Lester F. Albert, state adjutant of the Department of Idaho of the American Legion, considers no physical disability an insurmountable obstacle. For this intrepid veteran of the World war, who at the battle of Cantigny lost both legs and suffered other serious wounds, has not faltered in performance of his work since his return to civilian life.

Albert, who was a lieutenant with Company C, 56th Engineers, was in action with the First French army at Cantigny in May, 1918. Two platoons of the company were under his command, as he was in charge of the Searchlight section. Their position was under the direct and heavy shell fire of the Germans during the night of May 27.

One of the German shells ended active service for Lieutenant Albert.



Lester F. Albert.

It shattered both his legs, tore off a finger of his right hand, and inflicted many severe body wounds. Only immediate surgical aid, followed by blood transfusion, was responsible for saving Albert's life.

After a long period in a government hospital at Fort Snelling, Minn., he returned to his home in Idaho, and took up his chosen work as an electrical engineer.

His activity in the organization of the American Legion in Idaho brought him recognition from hundreds of ex-service men of the state and at the first annual convention he was named to the post of department adjutant. He has held this position since that time, and at the last convention was elected for a three-year period.

Mr. Albert's determination for rehabilitation in spite of the injury he suffered has won the admiration of Legionnaires all over the country. In noting the enthusiasm with which he carries on his work, the extent of the injury is never thought of. He considers that physical handicap will not thwart progress if determination is a factor in the fight against it.

DISABLED FELLOWS SHOW PEP

Legion Rehabilitation Officials Find Afflicted Men Make Good if Given Fair Chance.

It has always been the contention of American Legion rehabilitation officials that if the disabled man is given an equal start with those about him, the "vet" will come through with flying colors. This is borne out in many instances, but in perhaps none more clearly than at the North Dakota Agricultural college, where 106 Veterans' Bureau trainees are in attendance.

Names of five of these ex-soldiers were on the honor roll of the school when it was announced, a proportion of approximately 20 per cent of the total number of trainees enrolled as against 1 per cent of the other students who succeeded in making the honor grades. The average grade of these five veteran-students was 92.6 per cent for the quarter.

The veterans are also active in campus affairs. Every officer elected at a meeting of the Draftsmen and Builders' club at the college was a trainee. Burton Odekirk, a trainee, won outstanding honors as a judge of live stock when he was a member of the college team at the National Live Stock show at Chicago in competition with teams representing the other schools.

Harry Eckman, an ex-service student at the School of Agriculture of Minnesota, has won a medal for cattle judging in competition with a large class of other live stock students.

A Market Overlooked.

Excitedly the manufacturer of the World's Greatest Insect Exterminating Powder burst into the export manager's office.

"Hey!" he bellowed. "Have we got an agency in Egypt?"

"Why-er-no, sir."

"Well, why ain't we? I see a movie of them pyramids last night and it says they were covered with millions of hieroglyphics." — American Legion Weekly.

Legion Band and Drum Corps.

American Legion bands and drum corps are getting to be the common thing in Minnesota cities. Recently Northfield, Hutchinson and Red Wing Legionnaires formed the corps, and recently the Pine City post took over the home town band. Legion musical organizations already existed at Duluth, Rochester, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Silver Lake and a number of other places.

BEING ENTERTAINED

By JULIA A. ROBINSON

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

BULAH BANKS was one of the most popular girls in Saxville. She was bright and witty, she enjoyed having a good time, was pretty, too, and she never lacked for invitations.

"How is it you get a chance to go everywhere, Bulah?" asked Hazel, her most intimate friend. "I never get an invitation."

"Because you don't accept any when you have a chance," retorted Bulah. "I heard you tell Harold you didn't care for the theater when he was just on the point of inviting you to go with him. He was awfully disappointed."

"But I don't like the theater. You wouldn't have me let him spend money for what I don't like, would you?"

"But he likes it," protested Bulah. "He would have had an awfully good time, and he never would have known but you were having the time of your life, if you hadn't told him."

"Do you always go when you are invited?" asked Hazel.

"Sure, unless I'm going with some one else. It's the only way to do. You never know when you'll strike the right one."

"But I'm sort of afraid of them," Hazel confessed.

"You must get over that if you want to have any kind of a good time. Go, even if you don't like a thing. You know I hate the movies, but I'm going tonight with—whom do you suppose—Tom White! Imagine it!"

Tom White was one of Bulah's admirers, but it was not often he had the opportunity to be with her. She was usually going with some other young man, but tonight he was happy. Bulah had promised to go with him to the "movies".

"Yes, Tim," she had said, "I'll go with you. You know how I detest the movies; but I'll go to please you."

To please him! He was elated. She did care for him after all. He would give her the best time of her life. There was a fine show on for tonight. She would be sure to like it. He enjoyed the "movies" above all things, and he expected everyone else to enjoy them as well as he did. He bought the best seats and a box of chocolates. Girls always liked chocolates, and he did himself.

Tom did not pay very much attention to the play that evening. He was sitting next to the girl he most admired. He did not talk much, for he was bashful, only an occasional remark about some impressive scene. During the short intervals when the lights were turned on, he gazed into her face with admiration plainly showing in his.

"Ain't it fine?" he whispered, meaning that it was fine for them to be sitting there side by side.

"Oh, yes," she answered. "You like it, don't you?"

"Sure I like it!"

The last act was long. The hall was very dark. He edged a little closer to her side. He was not thinking of the pictures now. His thoughts were far away to the beautiful home he would make for her some day. Should he ask her tonight the all-important question? He trembled. Would she say yes.

He thought she would. He moved a little closer to her side. He thought she moved toward him just a little. He touched her hand and she did not draw it away. He was happy. He ventured a little closer and she did not draw away from him. He leaned his arm on the back of the seat. It fell very gently on her shoulder, but she did not start or move away from him. He was thrilled with happiness.

The play went on. Pretty girls appeared on the scene, but they had no attraction for Tom. His thoughts were all for the pretty girl so near to him. His courage rose. Yes, he would ask her tonight before they reached her door. He could almost hear the rosy lips say yes. He wished there were no one near and he would ask her now and catch the answer.

The play moved on. People applauded, but he did not know why they cheered. Bulah liked it, that was enough for him. She liked being near him, too; that was bliss. The play did not matter.

The last scene was over. The lights were turned up and, amid the applause, people began to pass out. Tom turned to gaze into the witching brown eyes so near to him and to catch the smile on her lips, for she would smile at him. With a gasp he stared at the girl—there was no answering smile! The eyes did not sparkle—they were closed tight.

Bulah gave a yawn, stretched her arms, opened her eyes.

"I've had such a good nap!" she cooed. "I feel so rested. It isn't so bad coming to the 'movies' if one can sleep through them."

She chatted gayly all the way home, but he was silent. He only wondered and thought girls were queer.

School Lunch Served.

Fifty rural children in Glasgow, Valley county, Mont., are being served with a hot school lunch daily as a direct result of nutrition work conducted by extension agents, according to a report received by the United States Department of Agriculture. Twelve quarts of whole milk are bought daily, and used for soups, cocoa, or a cooked cereal. A woman is employed to do the cooking and to serve one hot dish daily, with the help of the girls. The local woman's club financed the undertaking.

Canada Offers "Last Chance" for Virgin Farms

THINK of what you could produce on a farm of virgin fertility, without the burden of high-acreage cost. Think of what 20-to-40 bushel wheat would mean to you under these conditions, and of dairying and stock raising on cheap pasture land. Land pays for itself in a few crops—no artificial fertilizer—no heavy investment. You have envied the farmer who got his start when land was cheap. Here's your chance, perhaps your last chance, for the same brand of prosperity.

Western Canada—Your Opportunity!

Western Canada is the farmer's land of opportunity. Thousands of settlers who started not many years ago with little or nothing, are today the owners of fine farms, with comfortable homes and barns, thoro'bred stock, dairy herds—all the marks of prosperity. Yet land is not dear—only $15 to $20 an acre for rich, virgin, prairie convenient to railways. Land is not dear in Western Canada—yet—because there is so much of it. But many settlers are expected in 1923, and now is your opportunity, before the best farms are taken. Get started. Taxes are reduced, not raised, on land brought under cultivation. On farm buildings, improvements, machinery, personal effects, automobile, etc., there is no tax at all. Canada wants workers—it wants its land farmed—and the farmers, through their municipal councils, have practical control of all local taxation.

Special Renter's Plan—Buy Out of Profits

To aid and encourage the honest worker with perhaps little capital, the Canadian Government has a "Renter's Plan", whereby one may work a new or improved farm—"Try it out" for several years if desired—and buy a farm of his own out of profits.

Thirty-Two Years to Pay

For the benefit of those wishing to buy land, a national non-profit sharing organization—the Canada Colonization Association—has been established, with head office at Winnipeg, and United States office at St. Paul. This Association offers selected land convenient to railways—much of it at $15 to $20 per acre—on very small cash payment; no further payment until third year; balance extended over thirty years, but purchaser may pay up and obtain title at any time, if desired. Interest six per cent on deferred payments.

Special Excursion Rates to Western Canada

In order that you may inspect the land—see for yourself—judge of its value and fertility—special excursion trips of inspection will leave United States points on the first and third Tuesday of each month. Single fare plus $2 for the round trip, available from all principal centers. Take advantage of these low railroad rates to inspect for yourself the opportunities which Western Canada has to offer you. Seeing is believing. The nearest Canadian Government Agency will give you all information. The men in charge are Government officials, interested only in the service of the prospective settler. We help you find your opportunity. Let us know something of your position and receive free book with maps and information how special railroad rates can be arranged for a trip of inspection. Mail the coupon.

Free Homesteads are still available in some localities.

Canada welcomes tourists—come and see our country for yourself. No Passports required.

Go to the Colonial after the Academy dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fry, of Binghampton, N. Y., spent the weekend with Mrs. Fry's mother, Mrs. Fannie Martin.

We are giving away, as long as they last, toy Ford cars and Fordson tractors. Have you gotten yours from BEATTY MOTOR CO.

Francis Thal, of Osceola Mills, was an over Sunday visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thal.

The Academy minstrels dance will be held on Friday evening, after the show, and indications for a jolly good evening are promised.

Be a booster for Bellefonte. Take shares of stock in Centre County Building & Loan Association and help in building homes in the community.

Harrison Yarnell, 7 years old, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Yarnell, is improving after a very serious illness, presumably caused from eating ice cream.

Don't neglect that cough. Wenck's Glycerole of Tar and Wild Cherry will give relief, without harmful dope or alcohol. 25 and 50 cents, all Druggists and Dealers. tf

Roland Curtin, of Annapolis, Md., a son of the late Roland Curtin, of Bellefonte, who was a naval officer, has been visiting relatives here during the past ten days.

Mrs. C. U. Hoffer, of Philipsburg, who visited with her daughter, Miss Louise Hoffer, here for several days last week, has gone to Buffalo, N. Y., to visit with her son Richard.

Mrs. Clara Iddings and Miss Ruth Garman are planning to open their tea room, the "Dim Lantern" at the end of the concrete road at the foot of the Snow Shoe mountain about May 25th.

Richard Kessinger, formerly of New York city, stopped over here on Sunday with his mother, Mrs. W. H. Smith, en route to Cleveland, Ohio, where he has accepted a more remunerative position.

Rev. Dr. Schmidt and Harry Keller, Esq. were the delegates representing the Bellefonte Reformed congregation at the West Susquehanna Classis, which met in Boalsburg Reformed Church this week.

Mrs. A. L. Jamison, who had been visiting for several weeks with her mother at the home of the former's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haag, returned on Saturday afternoon to her home near Pittsburgh.

The W. R. Shope home on South Thomas St. was quarantined for typhoid fever on Tuesday morning, Miss Grace being ill. The case is not regarded as being of the severe type, but every precaution is being taken.

The Bellefonte Academy base ball nine will play two good games of ball this week at the Hughes' field. On Thursday afternoon at 2:30 their opponents will be the Pittsburgh Collegians. Friday afternoon, at 2:30 will be the keen contest with the Pitt Freshmen team.

St. John's Reformed Church—Ambrose M. Schmidt, D. D. minister. Services next Sunday morning at 10:45, sermon "The Silent Witness." Evening at 7.30, sermon, "The Pearl of Great Price." Sunday school at 9 30 and C. E. meeting at 6.45.

Samuel Richards, an employe of the Sutton—Abramsen Engineering Co., had the index finger on his left hand very painfully injured the other day while at work. His finger was caught in a machine operating on an automatic carriage. While it is not considered a serious injury, it is of such a nature that Mr. Richards has been obliged to take a vacation.

Don't forget that the Centre Building & Loan Association will write a new series of stock, No. 17, June 15. Subscriptions for stock can be made at any time. Help others get homes and save for yourself. Capital, $1,000,000, under state banking laws. Do your part to make Bellefonte grow.

The D. I. Willard store has leased the room in the Bush Arcade recently vacated by the Spencer Economy Store and are moving into the new and much larger quarters this week. Robert Willard, the manager, is an able and experienced clothier and said, "I am making a change because the business has outgrown the quarters here. The business for the first four months of this year is over $1,000 more than for the same period last year." The Brachbill store room, vacated by Mr. Willard, has not been leased.

Mrs. Anne Clemson, her daughter, Mrs. Flora White, and the latter's daughter, Miss Anna White, all of La-Jose, Clearfield County, visited during the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haag, on South Allegheny St. They were here more especially on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Haag's mother, Mrs. Kate Thompson, the latter being a daughter of the aged Mrs. Clemson. This grand old lady in spite of her nearness to the century mark, travels as comfortably as many persons much younger and enjoys the train ride. She is possessed of remarkable vigor and health for one of her advanced years.

Archie Irvin, of Tyrone, visited friends here during the weekend.

Capt. W. H. Fry, that active veteran of the Civil war and esteemed citizen of Pine Grove Mills, was in Bellefonte yesterday, accompanied by Samuel Homan. The former paid us one of his genial visits and we found him still as hale and hearty as a man twenty years younger. In fact, "Cap" Fry seems to add his years with an ease seldom met with. As Memorial Day draws near, folks talk of how thin are the ranks of blue, but we still enjoy seeing Capt. Fry one of the active few.

Mrs. Harry Burris Dead.

Mrs. Viola Burris, wife of Harry Burris, of near Centre Hall, died in the Bellefonte hospital on Saturday morning from complications. She had been ill for some time from uric acid poisoning and a short time ago underwent an operation, seemingly improving. Then a relapse came and she gradually became weaker until called from this life. A young woman with an endearing disposition, an active worker in the Lutheran church and Sunday School at Centre Hall, devoted to her home, she is much missed in the home and in the community where she was widely known. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sharer, of near Centre Hall, and was 26 years, 5 months and 8 days old. Surviving are her husband; a foster-daughter, Sarah Frazier Burris; her parents; one sister, Maybelle W., at home; three brothers: Jacob, Jr., and Franklin, at home; Ray, near Centre Hall; a half-sister, Mrs. Bertha M. Carper, and two half-brothers: George and Sylvester Sharer, all of near Centre Hall. Her aged grandmother, Mrs. Anna Hetzel, who makes her home with the elder Sharers, and an uncle, of Lock Haven, are the only other surviving relatives. Funeral services were conducted on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock and burial made at Centre Hall.

Peter M. Myers Dead.

Peter M. Myers, for many years a successful farmer in Bald Eagle valley who had resided in Philipsburg since retiring 15 years ago, died on Saturday morning from complications. A son of John and Sallie (Duke) Myers, he was born in Buffalo Run valley and was 78 years old, May 1, 1875, he was united in marriage to Miss Matilda Hunter, who survives with the following children: Mrs. Scott Ross and Mrs. Geo. E. Mock, DuBois; Alfred, Morrisdale; Chas. A., Martha Furnace; Mrs. William Rachau, Ohio; Mrs. Charles E. Sharpless, Ebensburg; Mrs. Walter Reese, Idaho. Burial was made at Philipsburg on Tuesday.

Mrs. Susan Hudson Dead.

Mrs. Susan Hudson, widow of Robert Hudson and a native of Gatesburg, died at her home in Philipsburg on Friday afternoon. The deceased, whose maiden name was Susan Harpster, was born at Gatesburg on Oct. 17, 1840, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Harpster, pioneer settlers in that section of Centre County. She married Mr. Hudson on Christmas day, 1867, and they resided in Philipsburg. Four children and two sisters: Mrs. Maria Reed, of Pine Grove Mills, and Mrs. Sarah Ammerman, of Curwensville, survive. Funeral services were held on Monday and burial made in Philipsburg cemetery.

J. D. Hicks Dead.

Hon. J. D. Hicks, one of Blair County's best known citizens, died on Wednesday evening of last week from complications. He was a staunch Republican, an able lawyer and orator, a former member of Congress and one of the most active veterans of the Civil war in Central Pennsylvania. His good wife preceded him to the grave, passing away on last March 31st. The deceased was born in Wales, Aug. 1, 1844. He was only seventeen years old when he responded to President Abraham Lincoln's call for volunteers to defend the integrity of the Union following the attack upon Fort Sumpter.

Mrs. Margaret G. Shillings Dead.

Mrs. Margaret Gilmore Shillings, who made her home with her son Frank, on Howard St., died yesterday morning from complications. She had been an invalid for four years. Deceased was born in County Donegal, Ireland, and would have been 79 years old had she lived until July 11. She came to America 49 years ago and since then had always resided in Bellefonte, where she was well known and held in high esteem. Frank is her only child. Funeral services will be held on Friday afternoon from the Shillings' home and burial made in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Rebecca Stewart's Burial.

The body of Mrs. Rebecca Stewart, widow of the late William Stewart, is expected to reach Bellefonte on Saturday and the funeral procession will be held from the train and burial made by the side of her husband in Union cemetery. Mrs. Stewart died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Heverly, an only child, in San Diego, Cal., on Dec. 5, and her body had been at rest in a vault until arrangements were made for bringing it east. The Stewarts for many years resided at AxeMann and previously at Pleasant Gap. Mrs. Stewart was 83 years old.

Mary Evey Dead.

Mary Evey, babe in the Jared Evey family, of Pleasant Gap, died in convulsions on Sunday morning at 4 o'clock. She was 20 months old and the void in the family since her passing away is keenly felt. Surviving are the parents, two brothers, Gerald and LeRoy; four sisters, Lila, Margaret, Blanche and Velma, all at home. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon and burial made at Pleasant Gap.
